GOLF AT DYKER MEADOW.

ANDERSON BEATS LOW IN PROFESSIONAL MATCH.

Best Western Players Who Will Enter the Amateur Championship-Douglas Wins at Fairfield-Good Scores by Tyng and Travis-The Fox Hills Links Opened. While the scores were not as good as had been auticipated, there was enough brilliant play at intervals to make the match for $200

between Willie Anderson of Baltusrol and George Low of Dyker Meadow, yesterday, at the links of the latter club, beyond the ordinary in interest. It was the return match in a homeand-home contest of seventy-two holes. In the first half at Baltusrol a week carlier Anderson finished 2 up. In the morning play yesterday Anderson increased his lead to 4 up, and he won out by 3 up and 1 to play.

Low was outdriven by Anderson from almost every tee, but as he is best noted for a brilliant short game this did not annoy his partisans. Low disappointed them in the short game, however, especially in putting, for he did not line up to his form, and at no part of the match could Anderson have been said to be burried. The trouble with Low was that a sty had developed on his left eyelid, which was so in-flamed that Dr. Clark Burnham had to operate on it before the start. The eye pained Low constantly and helped toward his defeat, but, judging from the long game, Anderson is a hard proposition for Low at any time.

There was very little wind in the morning. and the heat was a burden to players and followers. Anderson began with a drive that carried the hill, Low landing on the far slope. The hanging lie was a puzzling one, and Low was short with the cleek. Anderson getting a long shot to the right of the green from the brassey. Low failed to hold the green on the odd, the ball overcarrying, and Anderson won the starting hole in 5 to 6. Playing the second of 188 yards. Anderson was on the right edge of the green and hole high from the tee, but Low sliced badly and brought up in the rough over the fence near the third tee. A splendid recovery with the mashie brought Low within two yards of the masne brought Low within two yards of the hole, and after Anderson had failed to do much better on his approach put he ran down the put for 3. Anderson taking 4. A halved hole in 5 followed, each wasting a stroke on the green. Just short of the second green in 2. Low pitched dead to the hole, but Anderson, who was over the green on the like, failed to get very close on his third. Low won the hole in 4 to 5.

Low pitched dead to the hole, but Anderson, who was over the green on the like, failed to get very close on his third. Low won the hole in 4 to 5.

Anderson pitched well on the fifth green on his second, Low on the like running up to the fence at the back. The latter, although cramped in position, lay the approach put dead, and they halved in 4. Low was short of the sixth green with his brassey, but Anderson, using a cleek, was well within the putting circle. Low overpitched his approach. Anderson winning in 4 to 5. On each of the three holes to follow a half was recorded, due to the miss of short puts by Low, but on the seventh and eighth greens the miss was due to his ball being half-stimied. The first round ended with the two all square by holes and strokes.

Anderson won the next in 6 to 7, Low putting poorly and losing a stroke. Halving the second in 4. Anderson won the third in an ideal 4. Low having too much to do on the green. A halved hole in 4 was the record for the fourth. Playing the fifth Anderson failed to pick up his mashle shot clean and he found the cop bunker, but pitched to the green on his third. Low was again close to the fence on the second and his approach put failed to get up. Anderson won, in 5 to 8, and for the time being he was 3 up for the round. Low was short on both drive and brassey for the saxth hole, finally getting on the green edge by the road in 2 more, Anderson making the green very neatly on the third. It was a thirty-feet put to get the ball down, but Low made the gobble in fine style and they halved in 5.

Low played the seventh very brilliantly and won it in 5 to 8. The feature was that the drive was half-stimled by a tree, forcing Low to use an iron for the second to get a fair line for the green. Using a brassey for the odd, he carried the green over the two hills, a well planned and long shot. On the like Anderson overpitched his mashle approach. Playing the odd, Low pitched to the far extreme of the green, Anderson had made the green by aclever iron shot from the dit to halve in 4.
"That's the only put I have really tried for so far," said Anderson, as he walked from the

so far, said Anderson, as he waised from the green.

Anderson and Low each bungled the drives starting in the afternoon. The former made the green in 3 more and the latter, who had alleed into the street, took 4 more to gain it. Anderson won in 6 to 7. Wretched putting marked the second hole, Low winning in 4 to 6. The good holes on this round were the seventh and ninth, halved in 5 and 4 respectively. Low on the last rimmed for 3, as Anderson had in the morning. Low was 1 up on derson had in the morning. Low was I up on this round, but still 3 down on the match. The wind had been against the ball on this round on the first, second, third and eighth holes, and was half a gale, but a caim fell as the men started the final nine holes and rain second downlead.

A heavy rain and gale brought the golfing to a sudden stop at the Ardsley Club yesterday. The class A men had finished, but only four of the class B players had made the home green before the storm burst and the others ceased playing and ran to shelter. The women's putting match for the Cantain's Cup, which had the heaviest entry of the season, had just started and the storm brought it to a quick halt. The scores:

sawanhaka - Cortuthian Club's Regatta Marred by Erratic Sailing Weather— Quisetta Beats America in a Close Pinish-Kestrel Leads Syce Over the Line. The twenty-ninth annual regatta of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club, held yester-day afternoon, was the largest that has been sailed so far this season. If the Regatta Com-mittee had wanted to see what the yachtsmen could do in all weathers, the day could no have been better. There was a light breeze at the start, then a flat calm, then it freshence and this was followed by a squall, after which there were rainsforms, thunder showers and brisk winds. The start was made at 12:30 o'clock from a line drawn at the entrance to Oyster Bay. At that time the wind was light from the west. The first signal given was for schooners, and Amorita, with a small jibtopsail and main topmast staysail, led over the line. The Clorita however, made a better start because she was footing faster and had a better position at the line. She gradually overhauled the Amorita and soon became the leading boat. The Quisetta was last over, but after crossing she made a short hitch to windward and gained quite an advantage by it. All crossed on the port tack.

The sloops of the first, 51 and 43 foot classes were started at 12:40. The Sultan was the first over, and then came Vigilant, with Syce just to windward of her, followed by Kestrel and Queen Mab. The Liris got a poor start. and Albicore and Hussar were badly handi-

At the next signal the Oiseau, with J. Rogers Maxwell at the wheel, went over the line as the whistle blew. The Kit. Possum, Spindrift, Hera, Momo and Anoatok followed in the order named, while the rest of the fleet was closely bunched.

By this time the wind had died away altogether. The Sound was as smooth as an ice field, but very uncomfortable for all. Then little puffs of wind came from different quarters, and at one time those in the first division were reaching into a northwest wind, while those in the rear were getting along with a breeze from the southeast. The courses were: those in the rear were getting along with a breeze from the southeast. The courses were:

For Schooners and the First, 60, 51 and 43 Foot Classes of Sloops, Cutters and Yaswis—The Sound triangular course.—From the starting line N. W. by N. five miles to and around mark boat No. 8, about one mile S. by W. from Greenwich Point, keeping it on the starboad hand; thence E. one-half N. five miles to and around mark boat No. 4, about one and three-quarters miles off Long Neck Point, keeping it on the starboard hand; thence S. S. W. five miles to and around the stakeboat, keeping it on the starboard hand; course to be salled over twice, thirty nautical miles.

For 36 and 30 Foot Classes of Sloops, Cutters, Yawis and Catboata, and 25-Foot Knockabouts—Once over the Scund triangular course.

For All Other Classes—inner triangular course.

From the starting line N. W. by N. two miles, to and around mark boat No. 1, keeping it on the starboard hand; thence S. S. W. two miles, to and around mark boat No. 2, keeping it on the starboard hand; thence S. S. W. two miles, to and around the stakeboat, keeping it on the starboard hand; thence S. S. W. two miles, to and around the stakeboat, keeping it on the starboard hand; course to be salled over twice; twelve nautical miles.

The Vigilant, in spite of these flukey winds.

to be sailed over twice; twelve nautical miles.

The Vigilant, in spite of these flukey winds, did remarkably well. She was getting a light breeze in her topsail that was passing over the other boats and it sent her across the Sound in good style. She turned the first mark at 1:58:50 and then found a fresh breeze from the west that enabled her to carry her apinnaker to starboard for a short time. Meanwhile the other boats had found a breeze from the southeast and were crossing the Sound under spinnakers. This breeze made the Vigilant take in her spinnaker and reach with her boom to port to the next mark. From there it was a beat for all to the home mark.

Were:

Spindrift, 8:12:00; Vigilant, 8:14:45; Mongoose, 8:10:53; Kittle, 8:16:17; Houri, 3:06:50; Win or Lose, 8:16:82; Sirene, 8:22:85; Dandy, 8:28:00; Vers, 8:25:11; Kassas, 8:26:18; Mistral, 8:29:10; Tosto, 8:27:15; Midge, 8:29:14; Spunk, 8:32:21; Maine, Jr., 8:38:12; Gosbird, 8:38:22; Ox, 8:38:25; Cuisent, 5:46:00; Amorita, 8:47:40; Queen Mab, 8:49:44; Byoe, 8:36:18; Kestrel, 8:56:54; Liris, 4:08:07; Cioreta, 4:10:13, and Hussar, 4:12:20.

Cloreta, 4:10:13, and Hussar, 4:12:20.

The Amorita had lost her foretopmast, but she was giving a good race to Quisetta.

For a long time a squail had been gathering in the north, and just as the first division were finishing the race it swept across the Sound, causing all to take in sail. Some were driven over the line under bare poles, but the squail was not as bad as it looked. There were a few wicked puffs and then it passed over and the yachts went on their journeys. The weather was stormy for the rest of the afternoon and the race ended in a heavy downpour of rain.

The times at the finish were:

The Amorita, although handicapped with a broken spar, was close up to the Quisetta, but the finish of the day was between the Spee and Kestrel. The Kestrel overhauled the Spee on the last leg and finished first by five seconds. Spee carried a big ib topsail, while Kestrel carried as mail one. The big sail on the Spee was aback most of the time. The summary: SCHOONERS-80-FOOT CLASS-START, 12:35.

FINAL WORK AT POUGHKEEPSIE. The Rival Crows Put In a Hard Day's Prac tice for the Coming Races. POUGHEREISIE, June 24.—The crowd for the ntercollegiate regatta is commencing to arrive. At the Nelson House, which is common ground for the college men, there is a good sized gathering of graduates and undergradu ates, with here and there an oracular old crew man. There is no betting to speak of. The old-timers are waiting for the inside information, which is not at hand, and the younger element cannot find enough difference in the form and power of the crew to hang a guess on. Some Pennsylvania and Cornell money is offered with no takers. An old crew man remarked to a Sun reporter that he regarded the Wisconsins as a dangerous aggregation.

"Don't be misled." he said, "by any informa tion about their being ragged or rowing out of time. I have been in a boat and know what I am talking about. They will be in it during he last mile, and that is more than I can say of one other crew I could mention." In the training of college crews at Pough keepsie there has never been a time when the alleged experts differed so much in their echnical essays on strokes. To the untrained but observing eye, the material differences in the strokes could not be picked out with microscope. One of the most experienced men here, after looking all the crews over, said that they were all in good shape and that he sniffed a hot battle on Tucsday, and if he was s judge of rowing Pennsylvania would not be far from the front when the last gun was fired. A college man who is not of Columbian affiliations asserted in the presence of an awe-struck crowd that Columbia lacked fire and snap, and would be dead a mile from the finish. He rounded his prediction off with the indorse-ment that the stroke of the Blue and White was too bresh would be dead a mile from the finish. He rounded his prediction off with the indorsement that the stroke of the Biue and White was too harsh.

The Wisconsins are laughing at the alleged victory over their veteran eight by the Columbia freshmen yesterday.

"Why, we were only rowing a 28-stroke," said one of the Wisconsin crew this morning. "We wanted to give heart to the youngsters, and for that reason let them pull away alongside of us, while we were paddiling." The freshles do not claim that the Westerners were rowing any higher than a 31, which is not a racing clip.

This evening the practice of the crews, which for several days had been exposed to the vicissitudes of wind and tide, rounded up with a dash of rain. All the crews were out for a last hard row before the races. Cornell put in about six miles; Wisconsin rowed four or five miles, going over the course in less than twenty minutes, and the three Columbia eights, including the newly nicknamed "Never Sweats," as the mixed crew is now designated, practiced starts and spurts.

The Pennsylvania eights went over the course. The 'varsity made the four miles in 19 minutes 20's seconds, over twenty seconds better than their fast trial of 19 minutes 44 seconds of a few days ago. The freshmen picked them up for two miles, and made better than record time. They held the senior crew for the distance.

The crews were to have drawn for positions to-night, but Pennsylvania's representative did not show up and the drawing was postponed until Monday morning.

The American Henley was like a millpond this morning, and every one of the crews succeeded in getting two full hours of practice.

The Wisconsin oarsmen got out on the river shortly after 10 o'clock and were told to row down the river as far as Milton, four miles, and then returned to their quarters. They were coached as to their form, and defects in the blade work were commented on by the coach. O'Dea said nothing during the practice, but McConville and Andy O'Dea. They rowed down the river as far as Milton, fou had only a few days in which to train in the shell.

Conches Courtney and Peet had their crews cut at the same time, and the last crew to leave the water in the morning was that of the Columbia freshmen. They rowed up the river to a point opposite the Wisconsin boathouse, and then turned around. Coach McConville and Andy O'Dea watched the blue and white crew as they came near, but Coach Peet made them break up, much to the amusement of the Westerners. The freshmen were sent away at starts and were coached considerably about their blade work.

The Cornoll crews did all their morning work near the funpare end of the course, where their quarters are located. They practiced starts and spurts.

Revenue Cutters to Keep Rivers Clear for College Boat Races. WASHINGTON, June 24 .- Orders have been sent by Capt. Shoemaker, chief of the Revenue Cutter Service, directing the cutters Hudson and Manhattan to proceed from New York to Poughkeepsie for the purpose of protecting the river course from the encroachments of excursion vessels on the occasion of the college boat races there on next Monday. The revenue cutter Dexter has been ordered to New London for similar duty for the Yale-Harvard race next Thursday.

Sport at the Crescent A. C.'s Country Home The Crescent A. C. oarsmen, lacrosse players and baseball players held a carnival of sports at the country clubhouse grounds, Bay Ridge, yesterday, and every one of the teams of the organization was successful. A strong wind ond heavy sea made the rowing events uncertain, and only a portion of the aquatic programme was run off. The baseball team, however triumphed over the New York A. C., the Crescent golfers defeated the Oakland team, while the lacrosse team members held a successful 120-yard handicap run. The feature of the regatta was the defeat of Renjamin A. Jessup, who for a long while had held the single scull championship of the club. He was defeated byla newcomer, H. T. Wreaks. The remaining portions of the regatta will be held within a fortnight. Canoeing. The members of the Brooklyn Cance Club

season yesterday, but a heavy easterly wind kicked up such a sea that the sailing races were abandoned, while the paddling contest that did come off was decided in choppy water. The event resulted in a dead heat for the first time in the history of the club. Six contestants lined up for the word. Commodore Harry M. Dater, in the cance Ne Ne Moosha, and Percy P. Hogan, is the Red Devil, soon showed the way and finished on even terms, with D. Albert Nash, in the Annie Laurie, following closely. The distance was a half mile.

The heavy wind and sea that was on in Gravesend Bay, off Hensonhurst, yesterday depleted the entry lists and made the proposed programme of the New York Cance Club materially shorter. Louis H. May in the Aziz captured the only race sailed after a clever exhibition of handling a cance. The wind was from the east, and there was a choppy sea, which sank the veteran F. C. Moore's Fioneer, May was very daring with the Aziz, and carried all his muslin, so that in the second round of the three-mile triangular course, which was covered twice, the Aziz took the lead and won out, with Fales in the Soubrette second. in the history of the club. Miss Marion Jones Wins the Women's National Championship. PHILADELPHIA, June 24.-Miss Marion Jones of California to-day won the women's nationa awn tennis championship from Miss Maud Banks of Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-1, 7-5. When the match began Miss Jones had the serve, and strong wind in her favor. The first game was captured by the Californian, 40 love. Miss Banks beat hersel! in the second game through her inability to serve. The third game resulted in Miss Jones's favor, 40-15. Miss Banks got the fourth, 40-30, and Miss Jones the fifth, after deuce had been called three times. The sixth game was Miss Jones's, 40-30. The sixth game was Miss Jones's, 40-30. The seventh game and the set was captured by Miss Jones.

The second set was taken by Miss Jones by the same score as the first. The first, second, third, fourth, sixth and seventh games were won by Miss Jones, and the fifth went to Miss Banks. The latter was weak in both her fore and back hand driving, and showed poor judgment in playing. Miss Jones was not worrying at all, and her all-round play was marvellous. Miss Banks, however, put up a splendid game in the third set, her play improving fully 50 per cent.

Miss Juliette Atkinson of Staten Island, the present national champion in women's singles.

Miss Juliette Atkinson of Staten Island, the present national champion in women's singles, was present, and it was definitely learned that she would not defend her title. Miss Atkinson will not make her appearance in a public tournament again.

The linals in the mixed doubles were won by Miss Rastail and Mr. Hoskins, Belmont C. C., defeating Miss J. W. Craven and I. P. Gardner, Kenwood C. C., Chicago, 6-4, 6-0, COLUMBIA ON A MUD BANK.

RUNS AGROUND ON HER WAY OUT FROM HERRESHOFFS' SLIP.

the Floats Off After Being Held Fast for Over Nine Hours-No Indications That the New Defender Has Been Injured-Her First Trial Under Sail To-Morrows BRISTOL, June 24.-Emulating the example: f the Defender in 1895, when she stuck on the launching ways and allowed everybody to-have a good look at her, the Columbia to-day went aground as she was being hauled out of the Herreshoff slip and gave, as the tide fell, an opportunity to see the clean lines and, in fact, her whole afterbody. She gnominiously stuck in a mud bank with her stern cocked up in the air and her bowapris pointing downward as if it intended to do some spearing of fish in Bristol Harbor. She helpless when she ought to have been sailing

was all day long a sight for gods and men, a lame duck where she ought to have been gliding swan.

Some time ago the Harreshoffs dredged for sufficient water at the end of their new marine railway and in the slip by the north pier to float the boats of twenty feet draught. Had they carried this dredging 100 feet further into the harbor the Columbia would have floated clear to-day. Instead she brought up on a mud bank and stayed there until 6:30 o'clock this evening, when the tide floated her off and she was hauled into deep water further out in the harbor. The only good feature of the pro-ceedings is that she is probably not injured, and that no such foolishness as her grounding has in any way spoiled the chances of the boat on which the eyes of the public are fixed and hopes placed for the successful defence of the America's Cup.

Now that she is affoat, the Columbia will be towed to Newport to-morrow and will have her first trial under sail on Monday. The Friday superstition about taking a first sail holds good for Sunday, and the boat will not spread her canvas to-morrow. The work of com-pleting the Columbia for her trial trip was begun with the earliest arrival of the Herreshoff workmen this morning. Her steering wheel was put in place and the finishing touches were made about the deck. Then her light sails were taken from the sail loft and stowed on board, and she was ready to be hauled into the stream. Soon after 9 o'clock a line was taken to the buoy off the end of the railway. and the Columbia was hauled slowly out from the slip by her crew; at the same time an anchor and line were taken out ahead, so that she might lie well out in the harbor.

Everything went smoothly until she was almost up to the buoy. Then she took the bottom and stopped, and no amount of hauling could budge her an inch. A line was taken to an anchor off her port quarter, but she declined to swing and remained hard and fast. Mr. Iselin had been aboard the St. Michaels up to this time, but now he went aboard the Columbia in a hurry. His talk with Nat Herreshoff on the deck of the new defender was short and to the point. The newspaper tug S. C. Hart was halled and assistance in getting the boat off was asked. Δ line was taken from the stranded yacht. Capt. Murray sent the Hart shead full speed, but

Murray sent the Hart ahead full speed, but even this powerful pull failed to move the Columbia. Then came a signal to stop hauling as soon as it became apparent the boat was grounded for keeps.

Then precautions for keeping the new boat upright on the falling tide were put in force, and among them was the taking of a line from the masthead to the south pier. As the tide fell the Columbia dipped forward, but did not heel to any appreciable extent. She was evidently resting easily on the muddy bottom and was not in as much danger as she would have been had the fail of the tide been more than the four feet that it was. As the tide rose in the late afternoon a strain was taken on the line to the anchor in the stream, and at 6:30 o'clock the tow had its effect and the Columbia pulled her forefoot out of the mud and glided ahead into deep water. She had for speciacular accompaniments thunder, lightning and a vicious downpour of rain. She swings quietly at anchor to night, and is ready to be towed away in the morning.

anchor to-night, and is ready to be towed away in the morning.

A visitor to Mr. Iselin this morning was Nells Olsen, steward of the New York Yacht Club. He came with a letter in regard to the Columbia's race with the Defender early in July, in New York. It is probable that the first race off Sandy Hook will be on July 3, and not July Insoriginally arranged.

Commodore J. Pierpont Morgan came in with the Corasir late in the forenoon and anchored at the mouth of the harbor. Later he took a look at the stranded Columbia by means of a steam launch.

WALES VISITS THE SHAMROCK.

Cup Challenger Ready for Launching-Will Sail for America in August. Special Cable Despatch to THE BUR.

LONDON, June 24.-The Prince of Wates privately visited the new racing yacht Shamrock. at Millwall, this afternoon. He was attended by Lord Suffield, Lord of the Bedchamber and Superintendent of the Stables to the Prince of Wales, and Capt. Halford, Equerry in Waiting, and accompanied by W. Jameson, who formerly sailed the Britannia. Upon the Prince's nrrival he was received by Sir Thomas Lipton, Will Fife, the designer of the Shamroes: Mr. Thorneycroft, the builder of the yacht, and Charles Russell. The Prince spent two hours inspecting the boat, and when he left was oudly cheered by the 500 workmen who are preparing for the launching of the cup challenger.
Sir Thomas Lipton had a long conference with Mr. Russell, who was his personal representative in the arrangements for the cup races, this morning, and spent the entire afternoon at Millwall inspecting the Shamrock. The yacht is on the stocks, ready to be launched. She will be towed to Southampton on Tuesday, and will sail for America early in August.

TACHTSMEN AT NEWPORT.

Want to See Columbia and Defender Race To-Day, but the Prospects Are Poor.

NEWPORT, June 24.-There was great activity in the harbor this morning, preparations being made on all of the rachts to go to Bristol and accompany the new cup defender on her maiden trip down the bay. During the night the steam yacht Corsair arrived from New York and anchored off the fort, but Commodors J. Pierpont Morgan did not come ashore. As Mr. W. Butler Duncan, Jr., was going off to the Defender he received word of the grounding of the Columbia. He hurried on b. ard, and, getting the Defender under way, started up the bay to Bristol. He was accompanied by Mesers. James A. Stillman and Reginald Brooks. About the same time Commodore Morgan was in-formed of the mishap to the Columbia, and he followed the Defender up the bay.

fermed of the mishan to the Columbia, and he followed the belender up the bay.

This afternoon Femeroske Jones took a large party to Brittol on the steam yacht Narada, his guests including Louis Q. Jones, Elisha Dyer, Jr., Robert Sedgewick, Max Agassiz, Edward Bulkley, Fred Fayne, Reginald Norman, John K. Drexel, Edward Morreli and Mr. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Phelis Carroll also had a rearty out on the Navaloc, their guests being Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCreery, Miss Wetmore and Hertert Harriman. There will be a large fleet of yachts here to morrow to see the race between Columbia and Defender. This afternoon there arrived the steam yacht Sagamore, John H. Hannan, and seto ner yachts Shamrock, W. P. Ward: Sea Fox. S. Tucker, and Iroqueis, W. G. Roelker.

The prospects for a good day to morrow are poor. There has been a strong southeasterly wind all day and the gathering clouds indicate bad weather.
